DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moore in view of Grondin et al, Jensen, or Matthews et al and Latin.

Moore discloses a helicopter engine warning and control system that has a computer system that measures the temperature of the engine, storing data at which the helicopter can start safely, comparing temperatures, and having a source of water/alcohol that makes sure the engine is operated safely. Moore discloses all claimed parts except for the use of a ground source of water/alcohol and the quick disconnect coupling. However, Grondin et al, Jensen, or Matthews et al discloses that the use of ground source of water/alcohol is well known in the art. Latin discloses that quick disconnect couplings are well known in the art.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have used a ground source of water/alcohol and quick disconnect couplings in Moore's system as taught by Grondin et al, Jensen, or Matthews et al and Latin to supplement coolant system so that the aircraft engine can start safely and have all the necessary coolants.

Re claims 14, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to have stopped using the engines (such as at start-up) if the temperature is too high. This way, the engine wouldn't be damaged.

Response to Arguments

In response to applicant's arguments that Moore does not teach a means for inputting a safe temperature profile, please note that this is part of the computer system to control the helicopter. In this day and age, computers are programmed by keyboards and mice. Thus keyboards and mice are used to input a safe temperature profile. Plus, why would one skilled in the art want to input unsafe temperature profile that can damage the helicopter? Please note that Grondin et al, Jensen, or Matthews et al were used to show that use of ground source of water/alcohol are well known in the art. In order to allow the helicopter to operate effectively, the airborne tank can be injected or maintained at a full level of water and/or alcohol. This meets what has been claimed.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3644
